We're in a world where the need for support is expanding...

Great support and engagement drive value

Leaders differentiate by providing great service and support across the customer journey

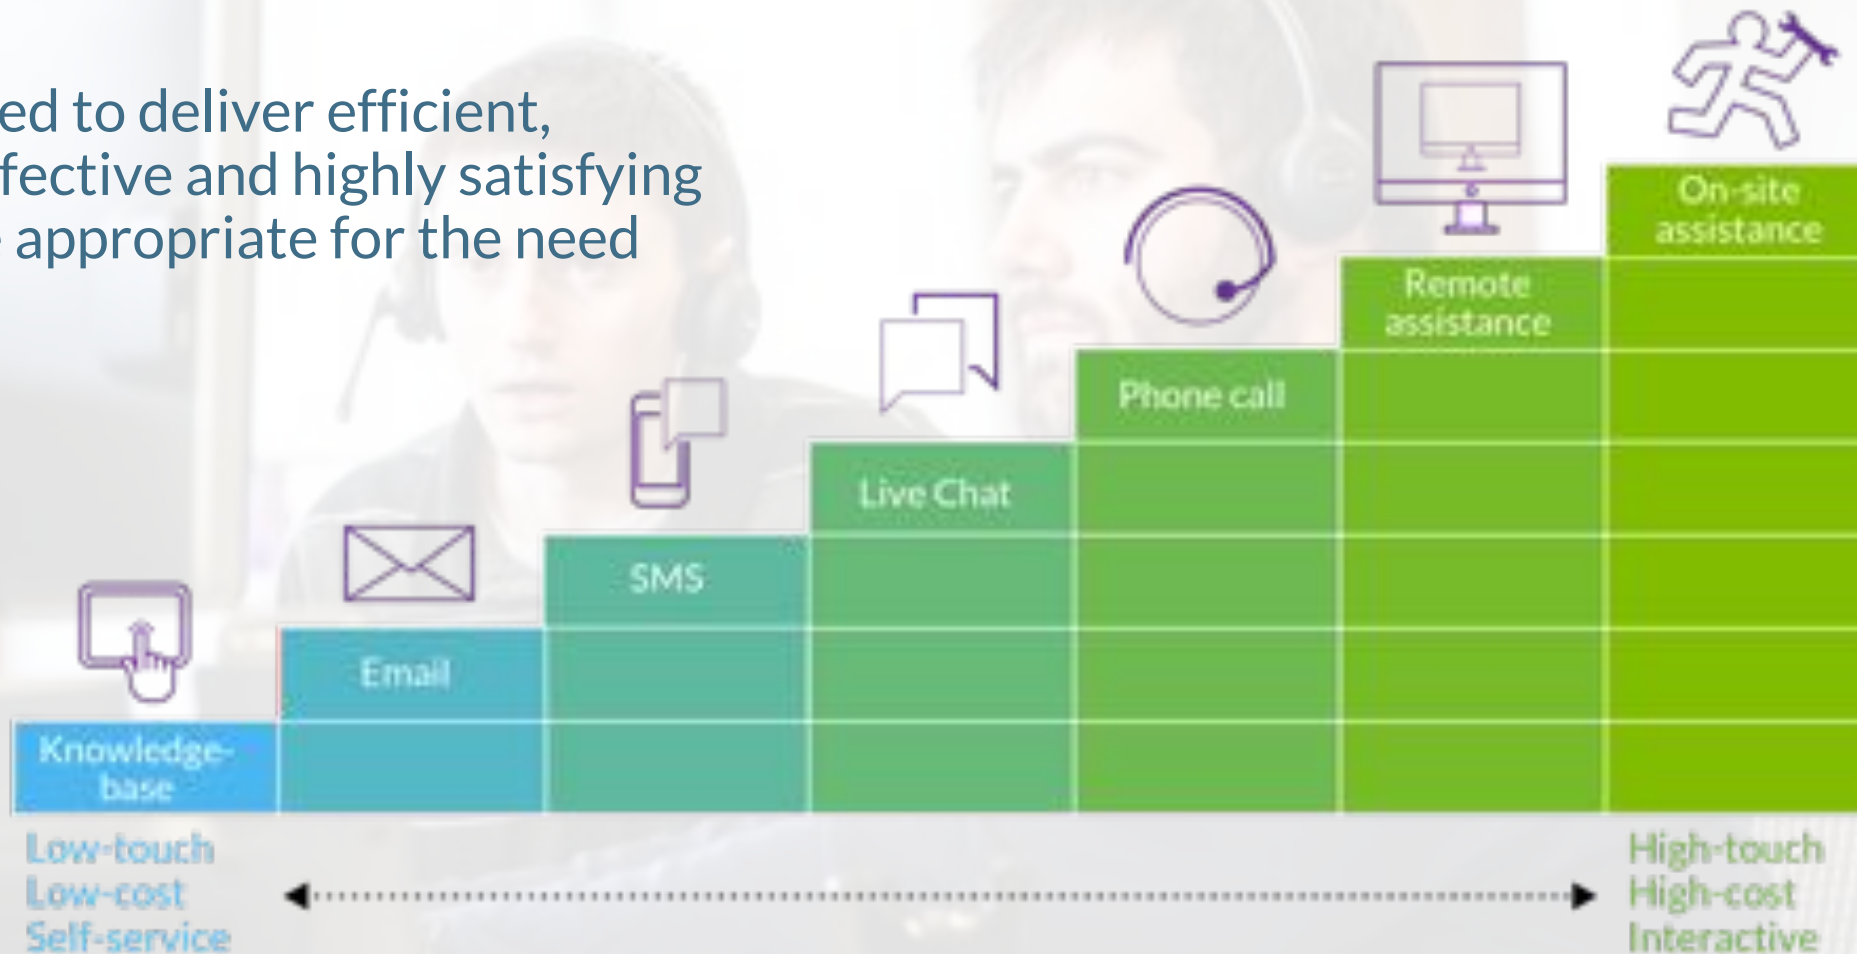

CX leaders outperformed CX laggards in the market

Every company is now judged against the best

You need to efficiently tailor the experience

You need to deliver efficient, cost-effective and highly satisfying service appropriate for the need

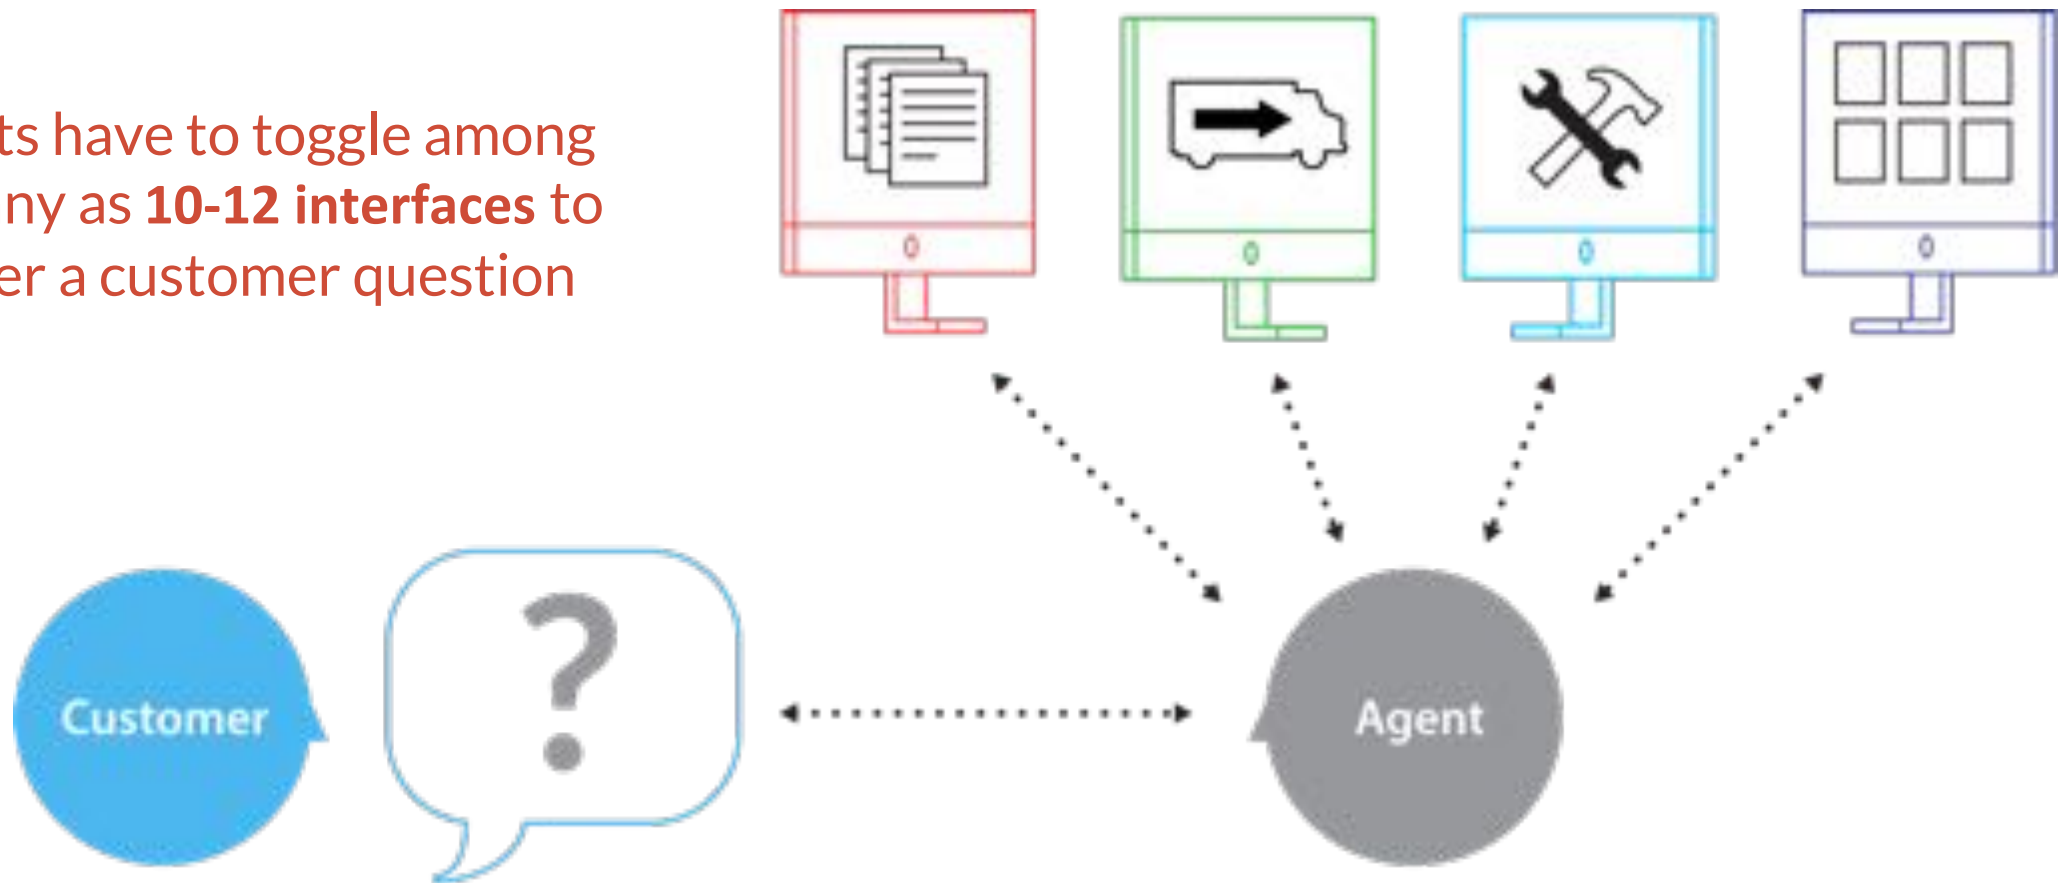

What's getting in the way?

No single source of truth

Customer and product information resides in multiple disconnected systems

Agents have to toggle among as many as 10-12 interfaces to answer a customer question

Interactions are disconnected across channels

Companies can't carry the context of a conversation from one channel to the next

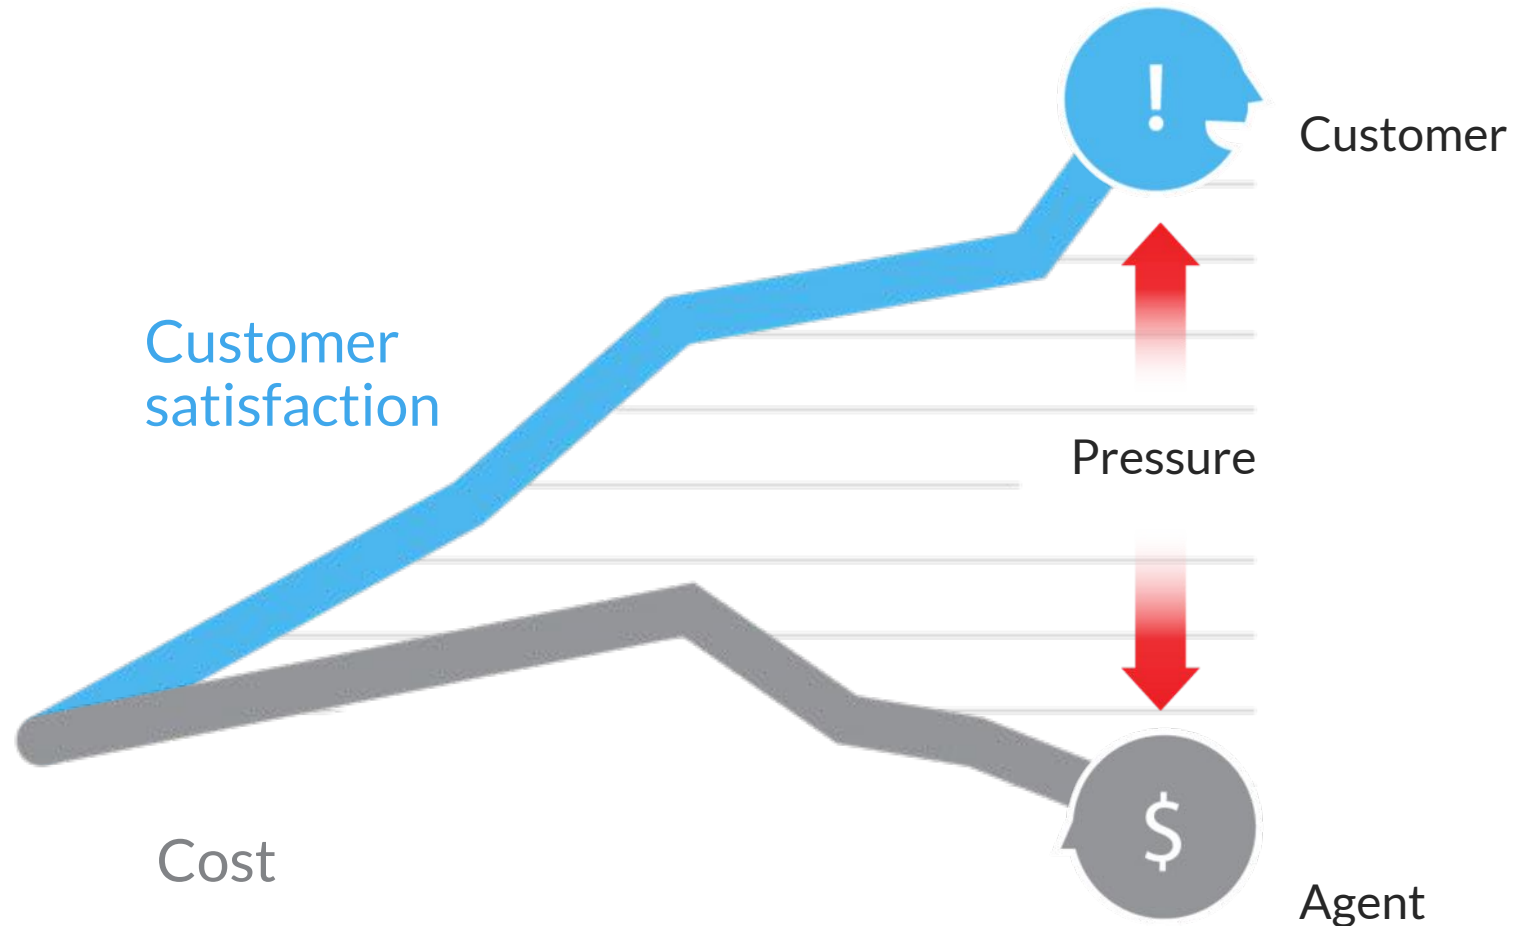

Support escalation can be slow and cumbersome

Impatient customers are frustrated by multiple hand-offs

Investments to improve service compete with pressure to reduce costs

THE NET EFFECT:

Poor customer satisfaction, churn, and rising service costs

But imagine a different kind of world

Where all agents work as one seamless team for your customer

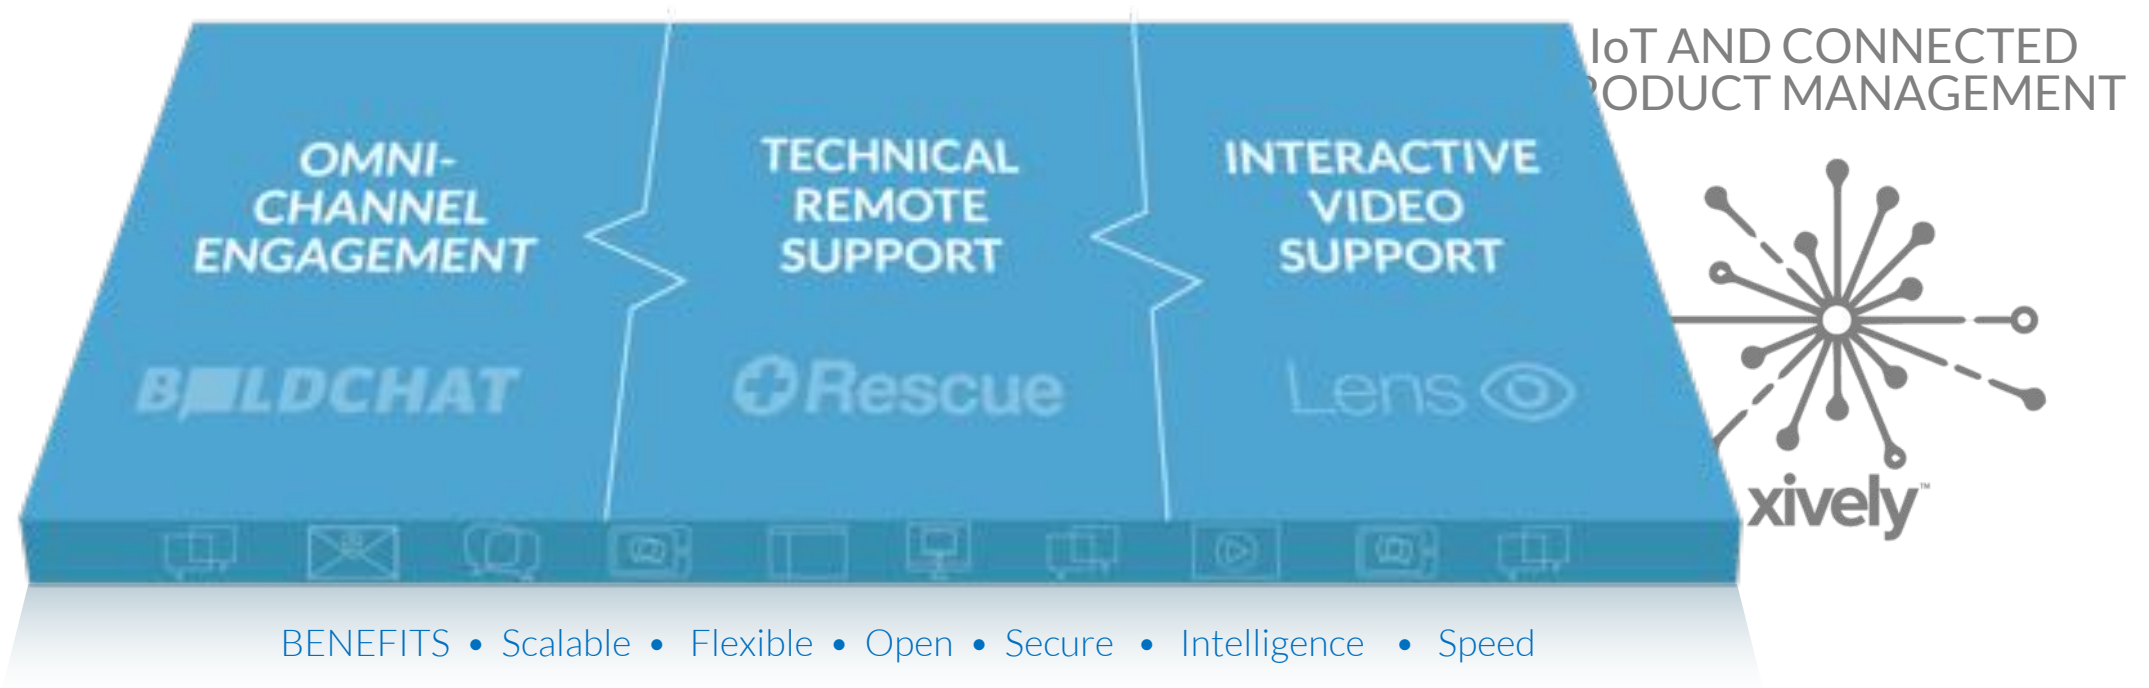

With easy access to all the information needed to deliver fast, frictionless service

LogMeIn makes it possible
